

COMPANY OVERVIEW

BACKGROUND

Killarnee Civil and Concrete Contractors was established in 1998 to provide the construction industry with in-house concrete construction services. Its founders, Paul and Elma Thompson, saw a real need to bring flexibility to the concrete construction industry to meet both owner and principal contractor requirements.

From the very beginning, the Thompsons – initially as sub-contractors – focussed on providing their clients with high quality service. Their corporate clients appreciated the fact that Killarnee could:

1. mobilise quickly,
2. deliver on time,
3. deliver on budget, and
4. deliver their product with little or no industrial conflict.

These vital, desirable, and highly competitive service elements remain part of Killarnee’s operational processes to this day.

No longer simply sub-contractors, this family-owned company has grown strongly over the past 10 years. It now provides the construction industry with a full range of concrete construction packages. It has both the people and the systems in place to operate at a high level, while retaining a decidedly personal touch with clients, sub-contractors and other stake holders.

Due to the recent growth in the economic environment, there is a high demand for Killarnee’s product, particularly from a company with a strong and flexible service philosophy. With few companies available to meet all of the civil concrete construction needs of Industry, and with room to expand their own operations, Killarnee Civil and Concrete Contractors is poised to become a market leader in their sector.
